

Update

Stories in Science has been operational since November 2016. We are happy to announce that the number of visits to our website has continued to grow each month. In fact, the number of visitors almost increased by 5 times between Jan and March 2017. Our most popular published story was by Jessica Rauchut titled "Love the Path You Travel" closely followed by Professor Robert Sapolsky's story from Stanford University titled "A Lab Coat AND Hiking Shoes". We continue to reach out to people around the world to share their stories. We are thankful to those that have shared their stories and are excited to receive new stories in the future. The map and color below shows where our visitors come from.

Stats for 2017

A non-linear path to the career I never knew I always wanted
A rollercoaster ride to finding my passion in computer science
Surviving as an Underrepresented minority scientist
Let us inspire young people
Books and family. My path towards the world of science
Melahnin Genius Spark is All Around
My Journey with science
Just Don't
My path towards the world of science
Part 1
Part 2
Part 3
Part 4
Part 5
Part 6
Part 7
Part 8
Part 9
Part 10
Part 11
Part 12
Part 13
Part 14
Part 15
Part 16
Part 17
Part 18
Part 19
Part 20

Most popular day: Mondays @ 2pm

